

SOUTHERN HIGH SIERRA

Within California's Southern Sierra, several national parks dominate the landscape. Yosemite National Park is the most widely known, especially for its spectacular waterfalls, yet to its south, Kings Canyon and Sequoia National Parks, hold their own magic. Within these two contiguous national parks you will find the largest trees in the world, miles of marble caves, and hundreds of lakes and streams.

In the foothills heading toward the high country, the small town of Mariposa marks the general boundary of the Gold Rush's Southern Mines. For more fun, a day or a weekend at nearby Millerton Lake State Recreation can help tame those hot summer days.

1. Merced

2. Mariposa

3. Yosemite National Park

4. Fish Camp

5. Millerton Lake State Recreation Area

6. Sierra Heritage National Scenic Byway/Mono Hot Springs

7. Sequoia And Kings Canyon National Parks

8. Kaweah Lake

